

Forget about the red eye in photos...

Pay attention to the WHITE eye.

Repetitive photos of a child with a white pupil may indicate a significant vision disorder such as:

- Amblyopia (lazy eye)
- Strabismus (eye turn)
- Or even a serious medical problem, including Cataract or Retinoblastoma (eye cancer)

Other vision issues may not be so obvious. A comprehensive eye health and vision assessment is the best way to ensure that a baby has healthy eyes and is developing good vision.

Don't delay! Have your baby checked today!

It's FREE by an InfantSEE® OPTOMETRIST!

To find an InfantSEE® Optometrist near you

Visit www.InfantSEE.org

Or call (888) 396-EYES (3937)

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Optometric Association through the Kids Welcome Here® campaign

www.poaeyes.org

